Putting

If you had the chance to attend either the CJ CUP Byron Nelson or the Charles Schwab Challenge this May, you likely noticed there's no single way to approach putting. Every player has a unique routine, stance, and grip. If you feel there's room for improvement in your own putting, don't be afraid to experiment. Sometimes a small change can make a big difference.

Ideas to Try:

The conventional putting grip right-hand-low isn't so conventional anymore. Try switching to a left-hand-low grip for a period of time and see how it affects those crucial five-foot putts. You can even use this method while chipping, as seen with Matt Fitzpatrick. Be sure to align the back of your left hand with the putter face (or wedge) to help keep the clubface square through impact.

Another option is the "claw" grip. With your left hand on top, rotate your right hand so the thumb supports the underside of the grip while your fingers rest lightly on top similar to Collin Morikawa's approach. Like the left-hand-low method, this grip helps reduce face rotation and promote consistency.

You can also experiment with your equipment. Try switching between a mallet and blade-style putter (such as a Newport or Anser style), adjusting putter length, or testing different alignment aids like bold lines, subtle markings, or no alignment lines at all.

There are plenty of options when it comes to putting. The key is finding a style that gives you confidence and committing to it long enough to evaluate the results. You may be surprised at the improvement that comes from a simple adjustment.

MGA Stableford Two Best Ball Event Recap

The MGA Stableford Two Best Ball event was held on Saturday, May 9th, and we had a great turnout with 38 participants making it the highest MGA single-day player count of the year! Thank you to everyone who came out and participated.

For those unfamiliar with the format, a Stableford tournament awards points based on scores achieved on each hole:

Bogey = 1 point

Par = 2 points

Birdie = 3 points

Eagle = 5 points

Hole-in-One or Double Eagle = 6 points

Since this was a "Two Best Ball" format, the two highest point totals from each team on every hole were combined to create the team score.

Results

1st Place Team – 97 Points

Mikal Black, Darin Black, Jennifer Le Blanc, and Mike Le Blanc

2nd Place Team – 94 Points

Richard Osterloh, Mike Bright, John Briere, Bob Fisherkeller, and Nomer Mendoza

3rd Place Team – 93 Points

Larry Helton, Dan Weaver, Mark Channels, and Steve Van Oss

4th Place Team – 92 Points

Mike Reynolds, Dustin Harmon, Ivan Pedrosa, and Jongsoo Kebaso

As you can see, the point totals were extremely close, which made for a fun and competitive day on the course. Again, thank you to everyone who participated. Our next MGA event will be held Saturday, June 20th, in coordination with the U.S. Open. The format is still to be determined, so stay tuned for more details coming soon!

This spring, I've truly felt blessed to work in a profession that allows me to spend most of my days outdoors. You really can't ask for more pleasant temperatures, and we've even been fortunate enough to receive a little rain along the way. Of course, in North Texas, weather like this never lasts long.

It's only a matter of time before the rain chances disappear and temperatures begin climbing into the triple digits on a regular basis.

That's when it becomes especially important for all of us to think about water conservation. As we all know, water is one of our most valuable natural resources, and the ability to use it for irrigation is a privilege we should never take for granted. For me personally, the ability to irrigate the golf course when needed is truly life or death, at least for the turf. And as homeowners who take pride in maintaining beautiful lawns and landscapes, I know it's important to you, as well.

There are many ways to conserve water inside the home, but I'd like to once again highlight a few helpful reminders when it comes to outdoor irrigation and landscaping.

Pay close attention to local watering restrictions. In many cities in the DFW area, outdoor watering by any means other than soaker hoses or hand watering is prohibited between 10:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. year-round. Water deeply, but infrequently. Allow the water to run long enough to soak deeply into the soil, but only irrigate every 3-5 days when needed and never to the point of runoff. Deep watering encourages roots to grow farther into the soil in search of moisture, helping plants become more drought tolerant.

Don't be afraid to test the limits of your lawn. Allowing turf to show slight signs of wilting between watering cycles is actually beneficial. It's one of the best indicators that the lawn truly needs water. Install a rain sensor or monitor weather patterns closely. Automatic irrigation systems should always be turned off when rain is expected. Few things are more frustrating than seeing sprinklers running during a rainstorm.

These are reminders most of us have heard before, but as water conservation becomes increasingly important, it's a topic that deserves continual attention. Small adjustments by all of us can make a meaningful difference in protecting one of our most precious resources.
